£150 Training rewards available from APHC

APHC (Training) Ltd. administers the reward scheme to help safeguard the long-term professional development of the industry by incentivising plumbing and heating engineers to up-date their knowledge and gain new skills

The £150 reward can be used for a certificated course with a recognised training provider such as APHC, BPEC, City & Guilds and all UKAS approved ACS providers

In order to receive the reward companies are required to send a copy of the training course invoice along with the successful course completion certificate to APHC who will then pay for the cost of the course, up to £150, into the employer's business bank account.

Further information on the training reward scheme can be found at www.aphc.co.uk
